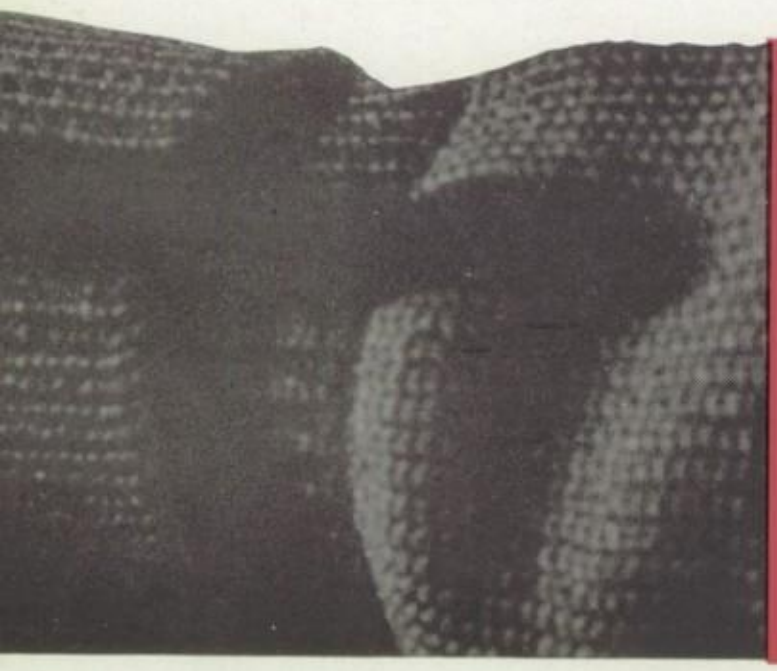
Presenting Hands of Service

THE Enchiridion



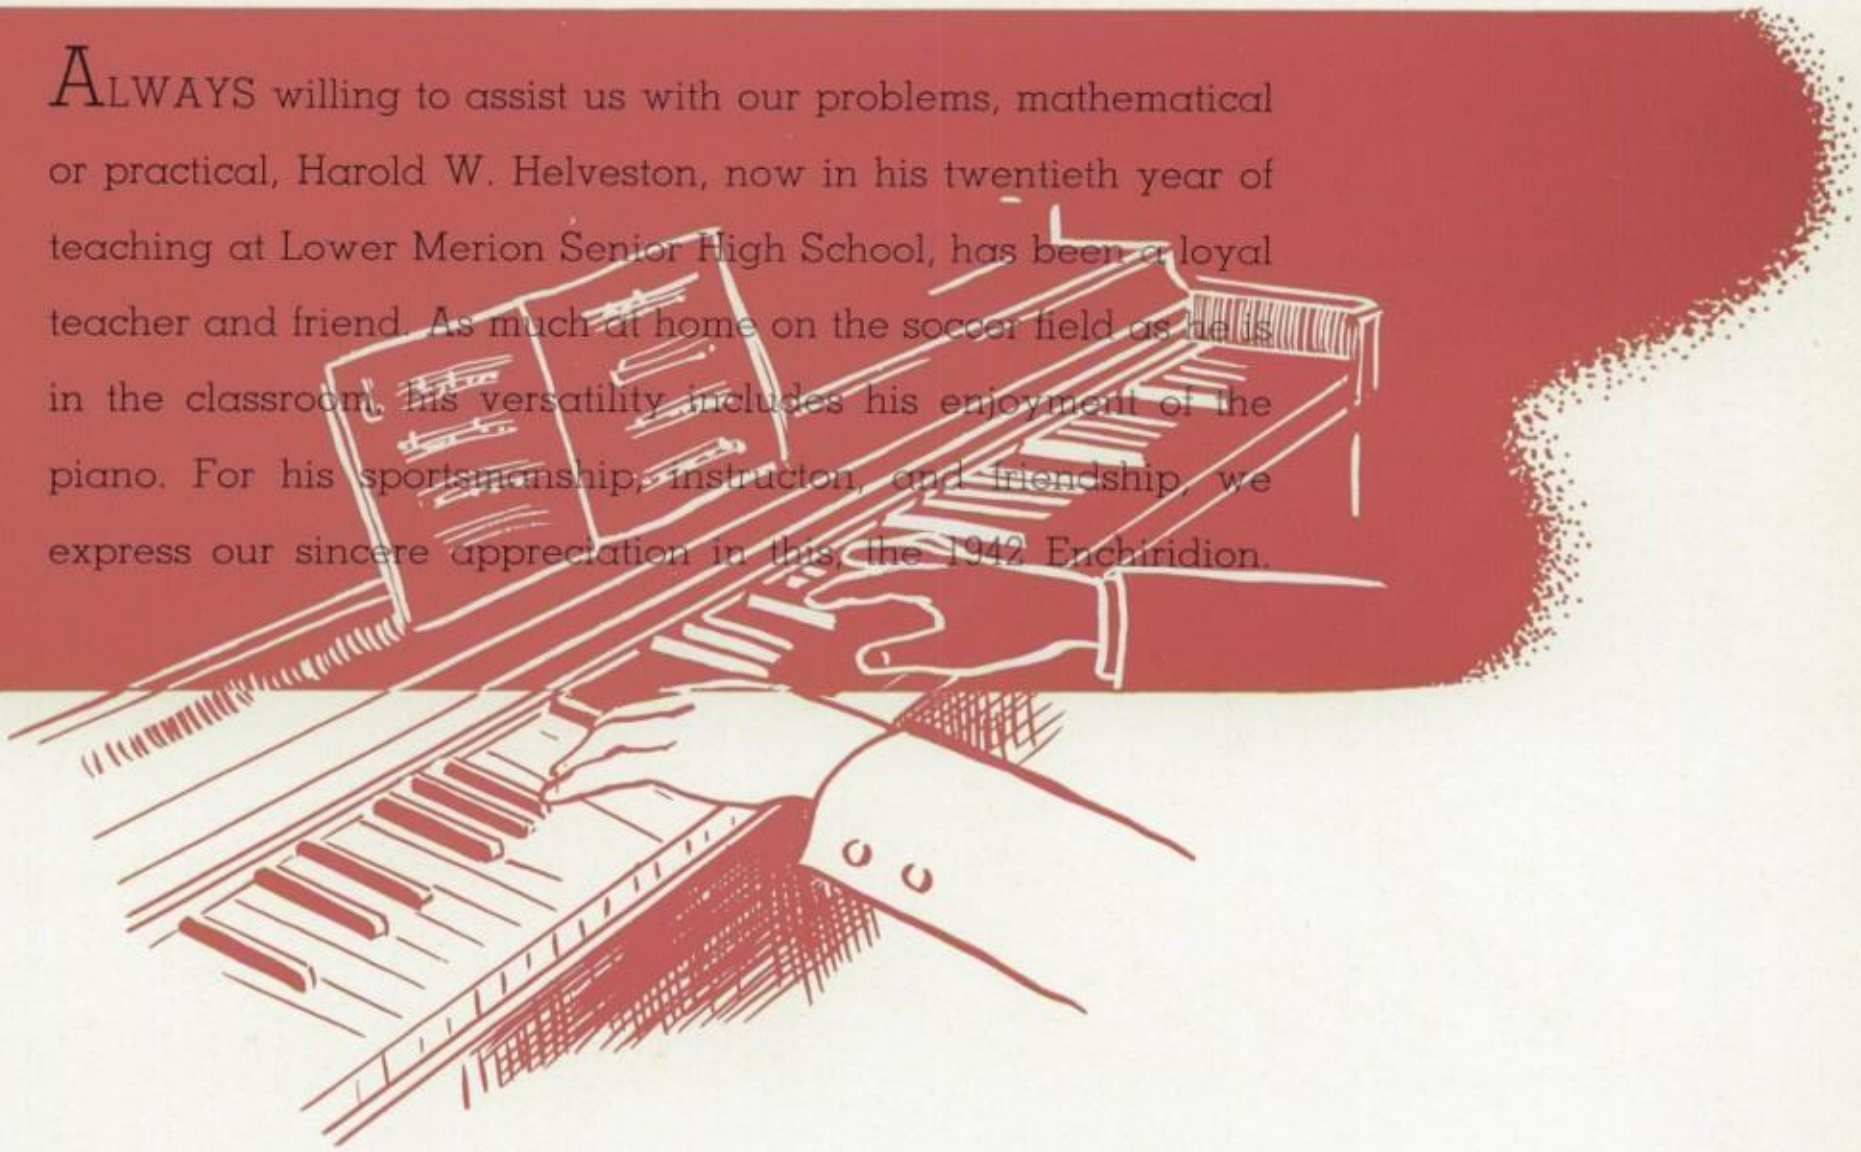
1942

The seniors of 1942 will soon be graduated from the school where they have spent three edifying years. Hands of service have welded them into a common fraternity. In order that they may not lose entirely all bonds which tie them to Lower Merion, the Enchiridion has been created as a record of their school life. This yearbook wishes to help students recapture some forgotten happiness or to help them re-acquaint themselves with former associates and activities.

Dedicated

HAROLD W. HELVESTON

ALWAYS willing to assist us with our problems, mathematical or practical, Harold W. Helveston, now in his twentieth year of teaching at Lower Merion Senior High School, has been a loyal teacher and friend. As much at home on the soccer field as he is in the classroom, his versatility includes his enjoyment of the piano. For his sportsmanship, instructon, and friendship, we express our sincere appreciation in this the 1942 Enchiridion.



IN this age of machines and industry, working with the hands is becoming more significant than ever before. To meet this change, schools are teaching mechanical trades and crafts along with academic studies, and, like many others, Lower Merion is building a vocational school to supplement its scholastic, athletic, and manual education. Characteristic in all the three fields of learning are hands—hands in the classrooms, in the shops, and on the athletic fields. In the clubs and classes, hands can only figuratively represent the work being done, but in the athletic and vocational departments, they can actually participate. With the addition of the mechanical education to the classical education, our school has become a small world similar to the large. Recognizing hand-labor expansion, the Enchiridion emphasizes this year that part of life in Lower Merion.

ADMINIS

GEORGE H. GILBERT

You Seniors are about to set sail, each on his own voyage. Soon you will be widely scattered and busied with a thousand varied duties. At times you will meet friends from Lower Merion days. At times discouraged you may regret the closing of this pleasant chapter of your lives. May it become a collection of pleasant memories. May you keep warm many of the friendships started here. And remember that Lower Merion, like a skilled athletic coach, has worked with you, mixing the work with the play, and now watches you push out under your own power, confident that you will give a good account of yourselves.

GEORGE H. GILBERT

FACULTY COUNCIL

ON THE third Monday of each month, this group meets in the Women's Parlor to discuss problems relating to the progress of the school. Opinions of the whole faculty are presented by the department chairmen, who are in constant touch with their teachers. The council discusses everything from determining the policy of the school, making curricular changes, to planning the day's program after a Lower Merion-Radnor victory. Just as the student council represents the voice of the student body, so the faculty council acts as the representative body for the faculty.

TRATION

As THE years go by we take more and more pride in our graduating classes. We are very proud of this class. Undoubtedly many of the 1942 graduates will distinguish themselves in later life. Also, undoubtedly, all of them will so order their lives as to reflect credit on themselves and on Lower Merion. We trust that through the exercise of courage, consideration, patience, persistence, and devotion to duty, they will attain success. We further trust they will be the instruments for bringing about in this country even greater freedoms than we have enjoyed in the past. Godspeed to the class of 1942.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

YOUR Board of Education is a progressive, forward looking group who believe that the youth of Lower Merion are entitled to the very best in education and that youth is our first line of defense in America. In addition to education, youth must be taught a respect for work and not the philosophy of "how much can I get for what I do," but "how much can I do for what I get."

The need of the world today is straight thinking and an abundance of good character.

SENIOR CLASS

With every class entering senior high come the usual outstanding personalities in scholarship, athletics, and leadership, but with the class of 1942 came a wave of new and better ideas which seemed to display so well the very essence of youth, with an added accent on the social events.

Soon, however, we acclimated ourselves to senior high ending our sophomore year by ushering in "April Showers," with a great rainbow arched over a blue sky and a wishing well below.

Remember how as juniors we proved that "Variety was the spice of life" by staging an all out for talent? A bon voyage was given the seniors at our nautical Junior Prom. Remember the Victory Dance after the Radnor game; the Senior Prom with the queen and her court? How could we forget the Senior Play, "What a Life," a hilarious panorama of school days? To these years of fun we add the climaxing senior trip to Washington, to say nothing of graduation.

ENCHIRIDION

THE challenge faced by the 1942 staff was to produce an Enchiridion that would compare favorably with last year's Columbia Scholastic Press and National Scholastic Press winner. To meet this end, the literary staff, elected by the faculty and senior class, began its Wednesday afternoon sessions in mid-fall in the yearbook office. After three months devoted to personal write-ups, attention was focused on reporting Lower Merion's varied extracurricular activities and identifying each member of the group pictures. The most hectic days were those spent in proof-reading, but don't think that the staff didn't have fun as well as headaches. The job of securing advertisements, taking orders for yearbooks, snapping candid shots, and selling group pictures was efficiently handled by the members of the business staff. Working together these two groups have attempted to produce an enjoyable Enchiridion.

MERIONITE

WELL deserving of every credit given it, the Merionite this year introduced to the school a host of new and different ideas. Never before has such a variety of innovations been put into our school paper. Way back in a little office off Room 210, the loyal band of editors pounded their reporters to put out a paper every Friday morning. The Merionite staff succeeded in putting out fifteen issues with not so much as a requisition for necessary supplies. Excellent political cartoons, new features, and laughable Sammy Soph in his comic strip helped to make a more enjoyable paper than Lower Merion had ever seen before. The cooperation in making successful the many school activities by their publication in the Merionite was fully appreciated by faculty and students alike. But in spite of the many improvements, the students' support of the second campaign at mid-year was not enough to warrant continued publications for the rest of the year.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Formerly called a group of "words," not "works," the Student Council now boasts a reputation of action and plenty of it. The greatest single charitable drive was the Christmas party in which we entertained fifty-three orphans for a day and sent them home with food, clothing, and toys. The social side proved to be a profitable pastime with the Barn, Christmas, and Reverse dances.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The twenty members of this society selected for character, leadership, scholarship, and service carried on the society's twelfth year with three dinners to fete the quarterly honor roll students. Money for these functions was earned by selling candy at the home basketball games. The members also held a dinner with the alumni at Christmas time. This group strives to stimulate high scholastic standing and participation in extracurricular activities.

BOYS' HI-Y

Activities for this year's Boys' Hi-Y varied greatly from the work of previous Hi-Y groups. Besides selling candy at all home football games and giving Christmas baskets to the needy, the Hi-Y, under the sponsorship of Mr. John McIntire, met every two weeks to discuss important social problems in regard to school life. John Rosengarten, president of the club, presided over these informal discussions.

GIRLS' HI-Y

Sending Christmas baskets, operating a candy store after school, sponsoring a sports dinner for the letter girls, giving a mother-daughter dinner, buying a defense bond for the school, holding a bridge party for the British Relief Fund—all these services help the members of the Girls' Hi-Y to fulfill their pledge — "To create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character throughout school and community."

DEBATING

Despite adverse conditions brought about by a change of topic and schedule, Lower Merion's ace debate team easily overcame difficulties presented, to round out an unusually successful season of meets with Radnor, Upper Darby, Lansdowne, and Bridgeport. The final topic of high school acceleration was determined in mid-January a wiser one than that of compulsory military training, and so was selected for the ultimate question.

BIBLE CLUB

The Bible Club offers a serious and purposeful study of the world's greatest book. This year the subject of study was the Old Testament, especially the work of the Prophets. Several students took charge of each meeting and following their reports there were many lively discussions. With Miss Baker's conscientious aid, the study of the history and teachings of the Bible proved most enjoyable.

BUSINESS SOCIETY

The Business Society, a newly formed organization, was founded for the purpose of creating a spirit of good will among the students of distributive education, and of affording them information presented by guest speakers concerning the business world. This club is unusual in that graduate members may still participate in the activities of the society after graduation, thus allowing the graduates and undergraduates a means of continued, mutually beneficial contact.

SCIENCE CLUB

The science club affords its members an opportunity to perform unusual experiments not accomplished in the classroom. Because of the large numbers of students interested in the oddities and illusions of chemistry, two groups were formed. Motion pictures of chemical and scientific natures were shown at the meetings for the enjoyment of the students. Informative experiments were enacted for the intellectually alert.

CAMERA CLUB

To explore further into the realms of photography is the main purpose of the Camera Club. Speakers and motion pictures are provided for the enjoyment of those interested in the intricacies of picture making. The parts and workings of different types of cameras and the development of pictures are discussed by the members in their monthly meetings.

STAGE CREW

Preparing the stage for plays, assemblies, meetings, concerts, and the many other auditorium entertainments, often with very short notice, is the task which the five boys of the stage crew, under the supervision of Mr. Russell Byerley, have ably accomplished. In addition to setting the stage for all types of programs, the boys regulate the lighting effects and operate the motion picture projector.

ORCHESTRA

The orchestra is a service organization taken very much for granted by the school, but is one which is of great value to students and to the community. This year besides playing for two public concerts and an assembly program at Haverford High School, the orchestra furnished music for two County Public Health Meetings, and for our Senior Play.

BAND

Besides its customary duties at football and basketball games, and its two regular public concerts, our band was active in its support of community welfare and defense activities including an appearance at Convention Hall, where music was furnished for the United Charities Campaign pageant. In the spring ten of its members represented the school in the South-Eastern Pennsylvania all high school band.

CHOIR

The Lower Merion A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Mr. Gerald H. Woerner, fulfilled a busy round of activities. The choir participated in the Cultural Olympics, in the District Forensic League Contest, and sent members to the District and State Festival Choruses. The winter and spring concerts and other engagements completed its schedule. Several social activities made this one of the most interesting school organizations.

SHOWPEOPLE

Through Lower Merion's dramatic club, Showpeople, a deep and sincere admiration for the stage and the work involved in productions is instilled in all students. Not only do budding actors and actresses have opportunities provided to show their talent, but amateur playwrights, make-up artists, costumers, and stage crews practice their arts in club meetings or in one or another of their many practical services to the school.

HOLIDAY

Holiday, by Phillip Barry, deals with adult problems in the adult world; and, therefore, is somewhat of an undertaking for high school students. Despite this difficulty, and the fact that several people were obtaining here their first stage experience, through the close cooperation between the hard-working stage crew and the excellent cast, the long weeks of rehearsal were rewarded by a capital performance.

JUNIOR-SENIOR FRENCH CLUB

One of the main purposes of this club is to have a good time while learning to speak French more fluently and to become better acquainted with France and its people. The meetings were conducted entirely in French. The programs were very interesting and included plays, quizzes, movies, and outside speakers. The social hours which followed each meeting probably gave the most pleasure to the members.

SOPHOMORE FRENCH CLUB

Since they don't have time during regular class periods, the Sophomore French Club provides students an opportunity to hold informal French conversation. Varied programs, conducted in French, consist of games, movies, and discussions on French life and customs. Miss Elizabeth N. Stauffer, club sponsor, keeps the program flexible in order to create among the students interest and enthusiasm for the language.

SPANISH CLUB

Conducted in the musical Spanish tongue, meetings of the Spanish Club savor of deep Mexico, Spain, and South America. Through frequent lectures, travelogues, foreign language movies, games, and folk dances, bits of the Spanish speaking world are brought to Lower Merion. To improve oral Spanish and study, discussions are held in that language sometimes paving the way for gay recordings.

SENIOR COMMERCIAL CLUB

Commercial students in their senior year compose the membership of this club. Meetings are conducted semi-monthly. Programs consist of various interests to commercial students, such as lectures, motion pictures, plays, and business machine demonstrations. So that each member may have a chance to show his activity, entertainment committees including every club member are formed by the month. A certain unity has been formed between the senior and the junior commercial clubs by having joint meetings. This club is a true source of aid to students entering the business world.

JUNIOR COMMERCIAL CLUB

The Junior Commercial Club members like to work together to learn as much as they can about the business world and to take on responsibilities that will make them more valuable office workers. There is so much to do that it is hard to fit it all into the semi-monthly meetings—speakers, dramatics, trips to business places, and writing and mimeographing the news sheets. This club is both social and informational.

BOYS' RIDING CLUB

The goal of the spring and fall meetings of the Boys' Riding Club was to promote interest in better horsemanship. The members traveled twice a month, in private cars, to Pancoast's Riding Academy, where several of their group aided the club by having their own horses. Several times during the year, joint riding trips were held with the Girls' Riding Club.

GIRLS' RIDING CLUB

Hunting with the hounds provided a new opportunity for the girls. This very interesting phase of the sport was added to the usual schedule of weekly rides climaxed in the spring by a show with eight suburban schools. These activities furnished much pleasure, and thus carried out the idea with which the club was founded—to give enjoyment to the girls as well as to improve their horsemanship.

FOLK DANCE CLUB

To study folk dances in the light of their European cultural background is the purpose of the Folk Dance Club. The members made two public appearances. They participated in a Hale America Program, and later they won the Award of Merit at the Cultural Olympics by performing a very intricate Swedish dance. The club aims at the spirit of the dance rather than the perfection of step.

ARCHERY CLUB

On balmy fall and spring afternoons, an enthusiastic group of archers may be found practising William Tell's art on the athletic field while in winter time, this same group will be discovered scoring bulls' eyes in their headquarters under the attic eaves. The club's objective is trifold: to introduce novices to archery, to increase the skill of experienced archers, and chiefly to teach its members responsibility and cooperation.

JUNIOR DISASTER RELIEF CORPS

The Junior Disaster Relief Corps is an organization sponsored by the Junior Red Cross for the purpose of training an alert group to provide messenger and guide service in case of disaster. The applicants of this group, handpicked by the faculty, must be over sixteen, ride a bike, be in good health, possess sound judgment, be amenable to discipline, and be willing to obey orders on duty.

Lower Merion's football team, in its first year under Coach Richard Mattis, compiled an enviable record of six wins against a single loss and captured the mythical Big Six championship. Coach Mattis, despite injuries to several key players and a late start caused by the infantile paralysis epidemic, molded a speedy, hard-hitting backfield behind one of the best lines in the suburbs. The Aces started their season with a 12-6 victory over the defending champions, Abington. Following a 33-0 rout of Haverford, the Bulldogs journeyed to Cheltenham and defeated the highly-touted Panthers, 14-0, in a contest later designated as the "must" game of the season. Coach Mattis' charges next defeated a weak Pottstown eleven, 12-0, on the rain-soaked gridiron of Pennypacker Field. Lower Merion football efficiency reached its peak in the Norristown game, as the Maroon, capitalizing on two of three blocked kicks, defeated the Eagles, 26-6. Seemingly headed for an undefeated season, the Aces, minus the services of their star tailback, Joe DiFelice, came a cropper of an inspired Upper Darby team, and lost a close 7-6 decision. Lower Merion, stymied for three periods by a stubborn Radnor eleven, broke loose in the final quarter to defeat the Raiders, 14-0. Walt Holland's two touchdowns, one an eighty-yard jaunt, sparked the Maroon to their first victory over Radnor since 1936. As a fitting finale, Jim McCollough, one-half of the dynamic McCollough twin guard combination, was selected on the All-Suburban and All-Scholastic teams while Brother Jack and "Gumpy" Holland also gained high honors on these squads.

After bringing soccer from an unknown sport to one of the major fields of athletic endeavor at Lower Merion, Harold Helveston asked to be relieved at the end of this season of his coaching assignment, having completed twenty years of service for the Ardmore institution. Despite their efforts to "win another for Hap," Helveston's 1941 Aces were nosed out by Haverford for the Suburban title. The Maroon got off to an excellent start by winning their first six contests before succumbing to Haverford, 3-1. The Aces rallied to sweep through Friends' Select, Central, Episcopal, and Upper Darby. A scoreless tie with Haverford on the Fords' Field tightened the hot league race. Victory for Helveston's charges over Abington would have meant a tie with Haverford for the loop championship, but the Ghosts, warding off numerous Lower Merion threats, held the fighting Maroon to a scoreless tie, second of the season. The Aces closed their campaign by losing a 2-1 decision to a superior Hill School eleven. Chief scoring threat in the Lower Merion front line was Artie Campbell, who tallied 23 goals. The work of co-captains Dick Longaker and "Reds" Rolli was outstanding, while Jack Shawde, filling Howard Alexander's shoes at goalie, developed into one of the best goal-tenders in the suburbs.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Starting with a green and inexperienced group of boys and with no letter men returning from last year's championship team, Coach Charles Hutton fitted together a squad which captured three out of four dual meets and placed seventh in District One Championship competition. The Maroon runners downed Norristown, Haverford, and Abington, while being upset by Lansdale, in a season curtailed by the late opening of school. Upper Darby, however, captured District One diadem at Cobbs Creek. Two sophomores, fleet-footed Norman Turner and Paul Love, developing fast as the season progressed, paced the Aces' distance runners. Turner took one first place and two seconds in dual competition. Captain Joe Crowley, Al Dagit, and Herb Eastwick also turned in acceptable performances. One of the headline events of the season was the participation by Hutton's harriers in the "Hale America" cross-state run. The entire cross-country squad, led by anchor-man Crowley, carried the aluminum baton on the last lap of the run. Sealed within the gleaming casing was a pledge of physical fitness to President Roosevelt from the youth of Pennsylvania. While not an outstanding cross-country outfit, the Lower Merion lads showed plenty of desire to learn and were spurred onward by an indomitable spirit to win.

MERION

Holding an undefeated Radnor team to a scoreless tie and finally proving their merit by winning over Media, the girls' hockey team ended brilliantly their mediocre season. The players were hindered by a late start and by the lack of their own practice field as well as by the cold days which seemed to keep the school rooters indoors. In their first game with Upper Darby, after only two weeks of practice, the girls bowed to a superior, more experienced team. Inspired rather than checked by this defeat, the enthusiastic hockey players outplayed a highly-rated Lansdowne group, keeping the ball in constant threatening position, but lacking the ability to score. Only in a surprise rush did the Lansdowne girls manage one quick goal. The game, however, was definitely a moral victory. The Maroon and White, still unable to gain a foothold in the realm of victory, continued with three heart-breaking defeats, first to a marvelous Cheltenham team, and then to Haverford, and to George School. Now determined to win, they held and outplayed the undefeated Radnor eleven, and followed with a final surprise attack on Media, which resulted in a 2-1 victory for the hard-fighting girls. In reality, the final scores tell but part of the story of the spirit of the Maroon lassies faced with continuous losses.

Bill Anderson's Ardmore Aces wrote another chapter in the history of Lower Merion basketball as they won their third Pennsylvania State court championship, the second victory in two years, thus equaling Hazleton's three-time triumphant record. Retention of the reputation as the No. 1 team in the State was not easy. Only two veterans, Harry Middleton, able and popular captain, and Greer Heindel, clever junior center, were on hand from last year's title team. But Andy, master builder of court teams, set to work and developed a quintet which seemed headed for an unbeaten season, when eligibility eliminated high-scoring Bill Koehler, transfer from Southern High and one of the L. M. mainstays. After downing Upper Darby, the Maroon marvels had their 25-game winning streak snapped by Allentown, 37-35, on a fluke goal. In their next start, however, Lower Merion clinched the Suburban One League diadem by whipping Haverford, 37-19. In the District One play-offs, the Aces romped through Sellersville-Perkasie, Chester, and Yeadon to capture their eleventh district crown in thirteen years. Traveling to Lebanon for the first interdistrict match, Lower Merion downed a highly-rated Gettysburg five, 21-13, in a purely defensive game. Returning to the more familiar surroundings of the Palestra, L. Men topped a rugged Shamokin team from up Scranton way, 28-21, in the Eastern semi-finals. The Aces arose magnificently in the Eastern final tilt and defeated "Bells" Colone and his Berwick mates, 30-25, thus qualifying for the State finals for the sixth time in twelve years. With 10,000 fans looking on, the big Maroon climaxed their championship season by outplaying Sharon's fighting "Rags to Riches" quintet, 32-27, to annex another State crown. Fine coaching, excellent teamplay and spirit, and loyal student backing had kept Lower Merion in its rightful position, "at the top."

LOWER

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Boasting three wins and two ties in eight starts, the girls' basketball team upheld the fighting spirit of former teams. Facing Haverford in their first game, the Maroon lassies battled to a deadlock of 6-6 at the end of the half. Then with Haverford ahead by one point, a foul shot after the final whistle tied the score. After traveling to Springfield for their second and easiest win, the girls next avenged last year's defeat by winning over Abington 31-30 in the most exciting game of the season. Although behind at the half by eight points, the Maroon fought back to win in the closing seconds. Against Lansdowne, Lower Merion captured the contest with a barrage of points in the final quarter. Now hoping for an undefeated season, the girls tied a strong Upper Darby sextette, again swishing the cords for a last minute save. Much to the disappointment of the team, they dropped their next game to an underrated Radnor team by the score of 19-18. This game was lost because of the inability to sink foul shots. The season was completed by bowing to undefeated Norristown. This was really a moral victory, however, since the splendid playing of the guards in the second half kept the Norristown players from their accustomed high scoring.

WRESTLING

When the cry, "Wrestle!" sounded late in November, Coach Edgar Whistler found that he had three veterans returning from last year's District One Champions, and another lad, Lloyd MacAllister, who had been unable to compete in his junior year because of appendicitis. Around this foursome, co-captains Jack McCollough and Justin Casavehia, Bill Coates, and MacAllister, Whistler and Harkins evolved a group of matmen who captured eight straight victories, including a 37-0 white-washing of Admiral Farragut and a close 21-20 decision over Lansdowne. The Maroon streak was rudely snapped in the last match of the season by a crack Cheltenham mat squad, which, boasting a string of 42 consecutive dual meet wins, crushed the fighting Aces, 28-11. To make matters worse, eligibility again reared its ugly head, forcing Jack McCollough, 165-pound king, to the sidelines, thus causing the forfeiture of the Lansdowne match. With McCollough unable to defend his District One crown, only two Lower Merion grunt and groaners, MacAllister in the 127-pound class, and Casavehia in the 138-pound division, gained district diadem. Participating in the grueling state tournament at State College, MacAllister swept aside two strong foes before succumbing to Byron Dugan, of Muncy, in the finals. Casavehia, after pinning Kupper, of Boswell, was turned back by Maylon Kirkwood, Dubois star, who went on to the state championships, in the semi-finals.

Starting slowly, but developing fast under the masterful tutoring of Coach Reeves, Lower Merion's 1941 baseball team finished its best season since 1933, with a record of nine wins and seven losses. At the outset of the campaign, the outlook was by no means good. Co-captains Ed Haley and Mack Stuart were the only returning veterans, and the inexperience of the Aces was plainly evident as they dropped four of their first five games. Lower Merion, however, then embarked upon a three-game winning streak, subduing Cheltenham, Haverford, and Valley Forge Military Academy before Norristown hung a 16-0 lacing on the Aces. Penn Charter and Abington were the next victims, the former by a 13-9 score and the Ghosts by a 3-2 count. After losing to Roxborough, L. M. defeated three Suburban League opponents, stopping Upper Darby 3-1, Cheltenham 4-1, and Haverford 12-2. In the final game of the season, Norristown's champion Eagles nipped the Maroon 11-10, in a close ball game. The consistent hitting of Jim Schofield was one of the high spots during the season. The fleet-footed right fielder banged the ball for a healthy .389 average. Charlie Slaw, shifted from the outfield to catcher, Joe Di Felice, moved from behind the plate to second base, Haley, and Stuart were the outstanding performers. Jack McConaghey's one-hit pitching effort against Abington was the standout mound deed. Schooled in the fundamentals of baseball by Gen Reeves, the Aces showed the fruits of labor by playing heads-up, fighting baseball.

Three seniors paced Coach Henry Drumm's 1941 Lower Merion track team to another successful cinder campaign. These boys, Windy Emlet in the mile, Bryon Meade in the polevault, and Henry Spady in the broad jump, proved to be the cream of the district crop in their specialties. Emlet, district mile and cross-country king, established a new school record when he captured the District mile championship at Upper Darby, breaking the tape in 4.37.7 to better the old mark by eight seconds. Blond Bryon Meade was defeated only twice throughout the season and missed the much-sought-for 12-foot mark by one-quarter of an inch in the State finals. Meade tied for first in the annual Penn Invitation meet and copped first in the District, Montco, Big Six, and Ursinus meets. Spady turned out to be one of the finest broad-jumpers in the state, for he consistently leaped well over 21 feet and set a new mark meet at the Ursinus Relays when he leaped 22 feet, 4 inches. These three were the outstanding Maroon thin-clads, but others helped in giving the Aces two meet titles: Charles Motley, Ed Turner, Bill Francis, Harry Bassett, Walt Holland, Odie James, Bill Hackett, and Merle Sieber. Throughout the season, Lower Merion won four dual meets, losing only a razor-edged decision to Collingswood High School of New Jersey. The Colls nosed out the Drumm-men by 1 2/3 points, a first in the javelin, the final event, giving the Panthers the meet.

GOLF

Things were looking up for Lower Merion's 1941 golf team, and so with Ted Maxwell and Bob Stader back from last year's "rookie" team, Coach Jim Davis looked forward to a good year. The team, composed of Maxwell, Stader, Bud Hays, Bill Tily, Chick Betts, and Dick Frazier, the latter declared ineligible in mid-season, started off on the right foot, winning their first four matches. The streak, however, was short lived, for Lower Merion's golfing hopes were shattered as the team lost their next five matches. After defeating Upper Darby to end this string of losses, L. M.'s dandies lost to Abington to close a season of five wins as against six defeats. Ted Maxwell, competing in the District One qualifying rounds for the state championship, finished eleventh, not quite good enough to qualify. L. M. golfers did only fairly well in the Philadelphia Interscholastics, Maxwell and Tily being defeated in the quarter-final rounds of their flights. In the eleven matches during the regular season, Lower Merion amassed 85 points to a combined total of 91½ points for their opponents, individual scoring honors being taken by the Maroon's Craig Wood, Ted Maxwell, notching 20½ points. Closely following him were Bill Tily and Bob Stader, shooting 19½ and 17 respectively.

BOYS' TENNIS

Although not reaching the heights of the former year's championship team, Coach Paul Harkins' 1941 Lower Merion tennis team finished the season with an impressive record of six wins as against three losses, and ranked third in the Suburban One court league. The Ace racketeers, captained by the hard-hitting Phaon Derr, dropped their opening match to surprisingly strong Haverford School, a non-league opponent, 4-2. Lower Merion rallied, however, to whitewash St. Thomas More, Abington, and Coatesville, Section Two king-pin, and rout Cheltenham and Radnor, before losing to the loop titlists, Upper Darby, 4-1. After blanking Norristown, 5-0, Lower Merion had these figures reversed on them by Lansdowne, runner-up for the Suburban crown, in the final match of the season. Dave Sherwood and Art Bushnell again were the outstanding racket wielders on the Maroon squad. The steady play of the former in the number one position and the brilliant work of left-handed Bushnell in the number two spot paced the Aces to the majority of their triumphs. The green and inexperienced doubles combination of sophomores Jack Richards and Bill Boardman started slowly, but developed nicely in every succeeding match while Captain Derr and Frank Richards played dependable, although not great, tennis.

VERSION

Suburban championship for the third straight year is the enviable record of the 1941 girls' tennis team. This power organization, which overcame every opponent on a tough seven-game schedule, was developed by Coach Edna C. Clarke from a squad containing only two letter girls, Eleanor Andrews, captain, and Ursula Paolone. The undefeated season wasn't an easy accomplishment, for the Lower Merion racquettes were strongly challenged by three outstanding teams, Norristown, Lansdowne, and Radnor, who were determined that the L. M. players should not gain possession of the suburban title again, but the Maroon lassies finally came through on top, nosing out Norristown by only two points for the court title. Eleanor Andrews, a varsity member for three years and holder of the first singles position for the last two, concluded her high school career by leading her team to victory. She found competition harder this year than she did the first two seasons, which she completed undefeated, and, for the first time in her playing career, was on the short end of the score in one match. Unbeaten during the entire season was Elise Townsend, a newcomer, who filled the second singles and actively aided in securing the Aces' victorious position. Another undefeated combine was the second doubles team of Dorothy Foster and Marian Miller, who were unsurpassed in seven matches throughout the entire season. In excellent form also was the first doubles team of Kitty Miller and Ursula Paolone, who played consistently steady tennis, overcoming some of the best racquet-wielders in the suburbs.

The girls' swimming team, in spite of two defeats, had a successful season as far as enthusiasm and effort were concerned. The team got off to a good start by beating a highly-rated Abington squad, 37-29. A close defeat at the hands of Upper Darby preceded another loss to the champion Norristown mermaids. The powerful Norristowners held Lower Merion to one first place, that by Dottie Dawson in the backstroke. Miss Hazel R. Palmer, popular coach, was ill for the Haverford meet and the team, spurred on by her absence and by two straight defeats, went on to a brilliant victory. Coatesville was humbled by Lower Merion, 49-17, in the closing meet of the season. Co-captains Sue Austin and Janet Moss lead the team through the season as the highest personal scorers. Sue swam in the 40 yard and 20 yard free-style, and in the relays. Janet dived in the first position, swam 40 yard, 20 yard, and relays. Dottie Dawson, in her first year of varsity competition, broke the Suburban League backstroke record by swimming the 20 yards in 30 seconds flat. Joan Levin, in spite of a head injury received in the George School practice meet, excelled in backstroke. Doris Grugan, the only sophomore varsity member, aided consistently in the 20 yard free-style and in the relays, while Janet McCurdy, a junior, swam free-style and Barbara Cardeza competed in the backstroke. High scorer for the year was Sue Austin, with 42 points.

LOWER

RIFLE

Competing in the Southeastern Pennsylvania Interscholastic Rifle Association for the second year, the Lower Merion marksmen compiled an enviable record of ten wins as against six losses, ranking fourth in the league. Leading the pack was Doylestown, perennial S. P. I. R. A. king-pin, but the champions were given a run for their money by a sharpshooting Upper Darby rifle team. West Catholic, defeated by Lower Merion earlier in the season, outshot the Maroon in their second match, thus nosing out L. M. for third place. Lower Merion scored double victories over LaSalle, Radnor, Yeadon, and Episcopal while also downing West Catholic and Quakertown, a new league member, once each. Only two "possibles" or 100's were gained: John Jones scoring one in the opening contest of the season and George Bailey duplicating this feat in the campaign's finale against Upper Darby. Captain Jones and John Bartholf, averaging 97 throughout the season, topped the Lower Merion shooters, while Guernsey Orcutt, George Bailey, and Randy Zelov shot consistently good scores. Shooting against the best in this area in a post season individual tournament at Yeadon, Bailey and Jones captured third and fourth places for Lower Merion, finishing behind Baumaster of Doylestown and Duncan of Upper Darby.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

To provide basketball activity for those boys unable to make the varsity team is the aim of the Intramural basketball league, and this year's schedule proved one of the best since the league has been organized. Fourteen quintets, including a faculty five, were organized at the start of the campaign and, after nearly three months of arduous competition, "Cornell's" well-balanced outfit was declared the winner. The so-called "starless" victors were made up of the varsity basketball managers and presented the best team-play in the circuit. Individual honors were carried away by "Pitt's" red-headed sharpshooter, Vinc Filliponi, who bucketed 120 points throughout the season. Team high scoring laurels went to "Navy," which amassed 64 tallies in one game against a hapless "Stanford" squad. A team of picked Intramural All-Stars split even in two games with the Naval Intelligence, dropping a 27-15 decision in the first game, but gaining a 20-18 verdict in the return match.

GYM TEAM

In its first recognized year, the Lower Merion gym team defeated four out of the six Philadelphia schools which have been competing for the last seventeen years. Highlight during the season was the victory Justin Casavehia scored by capturing the State high bar championship in the P. I. A. A. meet held at Penn State. Herman Junker showed exceptional work on the side horse, and he won that event in the Eastern Regional meet at Pottsville. Other outstanding performers on the team were Dick Loen on the flying rings, Bob Wells and Jack Shawde on tumbling, and Bob Okada on the parallel bars. Coach Henry Drumm's gym team was severely handicapped this year by the unfortunate death of Ed Kelly, expert gymnast on the side horse.

CHEERLEADERS

Behind the famous "Lower Merion spirit" stand the cheerleaders whose job is not an easy one. They must attend all games, no matter what the distance or weather conditions, and they must keep the Merionites' spirit up when the going gets tough. In order to raise the efficiency of the cheerleaders, a new method of selection has been recommended by the Student Council. Ten sophomores will be nominated at the beginning of the school year, with the five garnering the greatest number of votes at a general school election winning. In their junior year, six will be nominated, these not necessarily from the year before, with the top three winning out. The three accepted juniors automatically will become cheerleaders in their senior year. Led by Gordon Murphy, this year's spirit rousers did not fail to uphold the true L. M. will to win.

A Decade of Autocar DEPENDABILITY

For ten years, those Hartford Transportation Company trucks have been rolling through Connecticut, New York, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and Massachusetts. They've been carrying heavy loads along rough routes on tough schedules. They've been delivering their cargoes safely and on time. They've proved themselves strong—sturdy—dependable!

They're AUTOCAR trucks! As Anthony Giordano, President of Hartford Transportation, says, "It's AUTOCAR'S absolute reliability that counts with us!" It has to! Hauling practically everything in the general freight line, those Hartford Transportation Company trucks have to "make the grade"! Regardless of road or weather conditions, relentless schedules and heavy loads, they must not break down!

They don't! For AUTOCAR stamina and power prove their worth where the going is tough. Precision built to take bigger, heavier loads over greater distances, AUTOCAR means more miles at greater profit.

Whatever your requirements—gasoline or Diesel—conventional or C.O.E. —there's a heavy-duty AUTOCAR to take your job in hand.

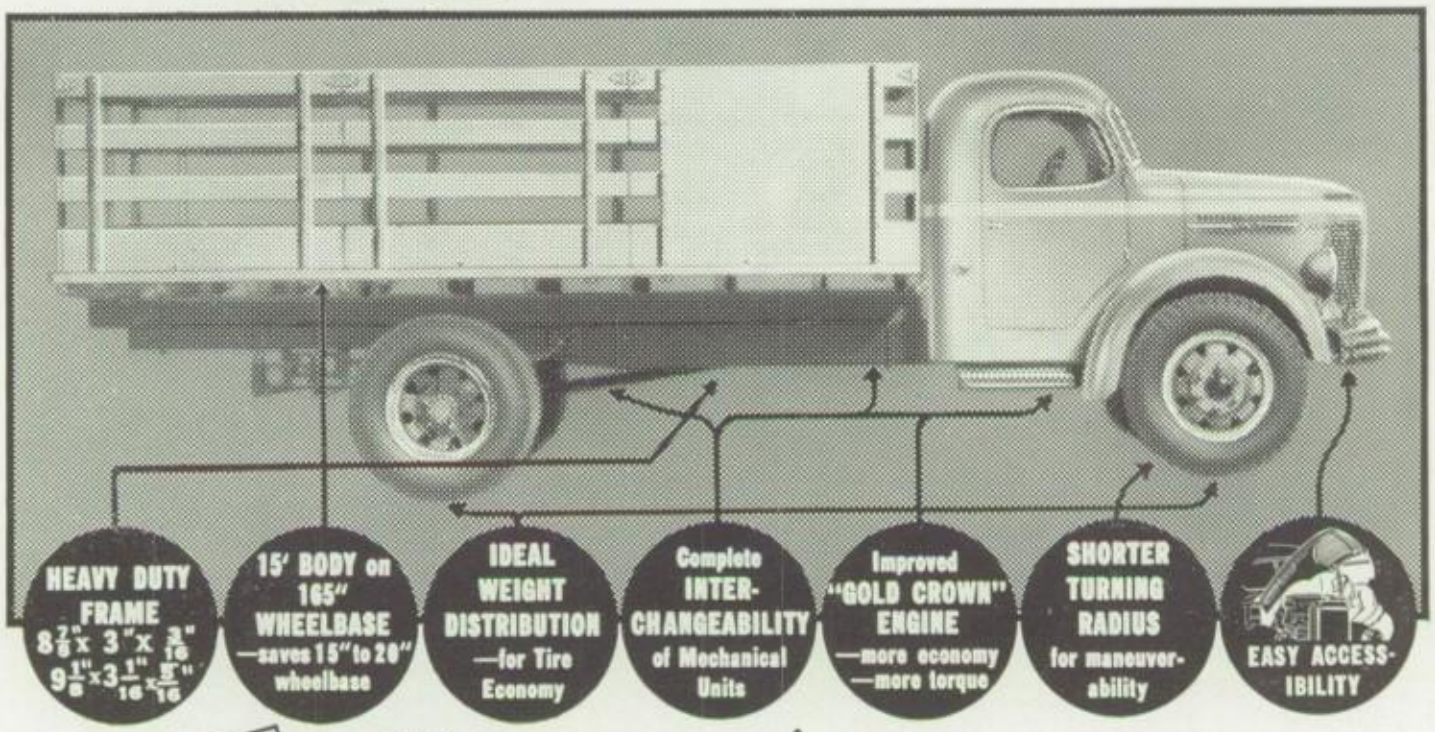
ONLY REO GIVES YOU A TRUCK LIKE THIS



The Greatest Truck in REO History!

REO Moreload
SPEED WAGONS and HEAVY DUTY TRUCKS

THE new Reo MORELOAD design brings to you the greatest truck in Reo history. It is the most advanced truck in the field today. Its wheelbase is 15" to 20" shorter than any conventional design truck —yet its load capacity is greater. This means shorter turning radius, greater maneuverability, and better weight distribution. Tire economy . . . easier handling . . . safer driving.

We predict that most trucks will eventually follow this advanced design. But now Reo is leading the way—as it has so many times on new improvements during the past 30 years.

By all means see this new Reo MORELOAD Speed Wagon before you buy a truck. Because here's the MIGHTIEST in a family of MIGHTY TRUCKS!
